

Background

This year marks the 30th year of the conference – an important milestone in the Association’s history. The Conference is a three-day event, featuring a mix of keynote presentations, panel discussions and networking events. It regularly attracts hundreds of delegates from across the industry and beyond.

As we reflect upon our industry and its continual evolution during this time, we arrive at a defining moment where our markets have become the place where liquidity is traded in all its forms.

Today, securities lending and financing markets have the capacity and flexibility to look at new trade ideas and provide solutions to the broader challenges associated with liquidity, collateral mobilisation, and capital efficiencies across the wider financial markets eco-system. Through this convergence a unique marketplace has arisen, enabling a wider single-entry point, facilitating best execution with fewer obstacles, and ultimately redefining the roles and responsibilities across the traditional securities lending value chain.
